The Archaeologist, Dr. Roeland Paardekooper

from the Netherlands has been awarded the Museum horizon international prize for 2015. His work concerns experimental archaeology, education and building up qualitative and long-term partnerships between different organizations and individuals interested in practical archeology. He has done a lot for the exchange of knowledge and professionalisation in the field and he works abroad, mainly in Europe. He is also director of the organization EXARC

The awards ceremony takes place at the Book and Library Fair in Gothenburg on 27 september at 12 noon.

Welcome to a dialogue on

Education, Experimental and Public Archaeology

Dr. Roeland Paardekooper will introduce his long time work within the field of public archaeology, education and experimental Archaeology across Europe. Discussant: Anita Synnestvedt, University of Gothenburg.

The programme is arranged by Museum horizon and The Heritage Academy and NEARCH at the University of Gothenburg.

Roeland Paardekooper has been working in the field of archaeological reconstructions and open-air museums since 1981. In 1998 he graduated with a thesis on modern ship reconstructions of the medieval Hanse Association. He has worked both with archaeological education and archaeological tourism over the years and he got ever more attracted to solutions across Europe for reaching out to the public. In 2001, this led to his involvement as one of the founders of EXARC of which he has been Director since. From October 2013 he is an Interim Director / Stellvertretender Museumsleiter of the Archäologisches Freilichtmuseum Oerlinghausen (Germany).

Since 2009 Hans Manneby Memorial Fund for Museum Development, Museum horizon, awards an international prize to a person who has contributed in an innovative manner to develop and change the role of museums in contemporary society, locally and globally. The prize has been awarded to Mr Paul Msemwa, Museum and House of Culture, Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, Ms Teresa Morales, Union de los museos comunitarios, Oaxaca, Mexico, Ms Elizabeth Codova La'O, Museo Sang Bata Sa Negros, the Philippines, Mr Stephen Inglis, Aanischaaukamikw Cree Cultural Institute, Ouje-Bougoumou, Canada, Suad Amiry, Riwaq Centre for Architectural Conservation, Ramallah, Palestina and Giane Vargas Escobar, Museu Comunitário Treze de Maio, Santa Maria, Rio Grande do Sul, Brasil.
